

I am requesting that you do not take any action that would weaken Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. If you weaken this law, customers will be bombarded with phone calls promoting products and services that are of marginal value to the customers, or in some cases might even be detrimental to these customers. The sale of these products and services usually benefits the seller much more than it does the customers. Who do you want to protect?